Wow! What a month!

In the beginning of this month we started “el mercado de pulgas” which is the Ecuadorian way of raising funds. Our conference is coming up and our teenagers need money for their trip to Quito – so we went with some of the youth to the streets to sale doughnuts and coke for 50 cents. It wasn’t what you would call a great success but that’s how many people make their living here. I also made brownies to sell in the church.

Every year in February our church organizes a special week called “semana vacacional” (vocational week). This year I was in charge of it. We had about sixty children. I had a team of 18 young helpers from church. I was so blessed to see our teenagers not only helping but literally laying down their lives for these children. They taught, did drama, helped with crafts and gave out sweets. They just loved it and so did we.

That same weekend after the youth meeting the girls had a sleep over in my house. Next day we went together to church service and anniversary party of the church – 2 years in a new location. We had new people, beautiful testimonies, food, good music and above all salvations.

This last weekend we had the monthly youth group party in my house. It was P Mike’s desire that the youth will go soul-winning every second week of the month and to have a fun activity every fourth week.

It’s been really a rich and blessed month - and what a month to come! We are getting ready for our conference here in Ecuador with guests from USA, Peru and Quito and we have great expectation from the Lord!

Much love in Christ, Olimpia
